WHY HE QUIT THE PROHIBITIONISTS

John G. Wooley, Once Presidential Candidate, Says Time to Spread Alarm is Past.

TEMPERANCE TALK LAST NIGHT

Declares Appeal to Voters to Fight Enemy of Their Party is Most Satisfactory.

John G. Wooley, in 1904 the Prohibition party's candidate for President, last night at the Coliseum in an address on "Good Citizenship," told why he had left the Prohibition party and joined in the forces of the Anti-Saloon League in the battle against the liquor traffic.

Mr. Wooley is a convincing speaker. He gave a clearer and more concise view of the situation as it is today than any speaker who ever appeared here in the interests of the temperance cause. His address was largely argumentative. He possessed a quaint manner, and dry wit and humor, which gave him a good hearing, from the beginning, by the audience of some three hundred people.

"If some Prohibitionist comes around and tells you that we are on the eve of routing the liquor traffic, you may know that he is talking through his hat," vouchsafed Mr. Wooley, and this about summed up the position he took in regard to the liquor traffic. He declared that the battle had only begun, and that until the Christian manhood of the United States was willing to expose its body to the brunt of the battle, it would not be a complete rout.

His subject expressed the duty of Christian citizenship as related to the liquor traffic. When he began the fight 25 years ago, he said, party lines were drawn tightly, and it was difficult to call the party man's attention to his duty to his home, family, church, school and social life.

Mr. Wooley enumerated the various classes of society who are not affected by the liquor traffic. It was to these he directed his appeal. The case is lost, he averred, unless the Christian men in America have the stuff in them to stay with the fight, win or lose, and despite avalanches to the liquor traffic.

"Some Prohibitionists," continued the former presidential candidate, "think the fight is won, but it is only begun. We have won a signal victory in Indiana because we have the question before the people. When I emerged from the ranks of the Prohibition party I took the position that people in the main know all about the liquor traffic, and the real purpose of this fight is to nail up the individual responsibility of each Christian citizen."

He referred to the many times he had been complimented by some "pillar" of the church, after making a temperance speech. Then that church "pillar" would launch off, he said, on another sentence which began with the word "but." That meant, Wooley said, that this self same "pillar" was intending to say that there was nothing practical about the plan, and that its advocates were fanatical.

He then resolved to get on a practical footing with all voters when he talked temperance in the future, he said. From that time he was identified with the Anti-Saloon League, through which many victories have been won, he declared, by appealing to the practical business man with a practical scheme. Wooley said he devoted many earnest years to the Prohibition party, but was unable to attract far-sighted men, the chief reason for that being that a too drastic method was used.

Wooley described the approach used by a Prohibitionist. He said the leaders in this party had to gain their cohorts from the two great parties, and when he wished to win a Democrat or a Republican to the Prohibition cause, he said "You will have to quit being a Democrat to vote with us against the liquor traffic."

"But that doesn't work," said Mr. Wooley. "I am told that it is hard to quit being a Democrat—and the same thing applies to a Republican. Now the Anti-Saloon League goes to the party man and says, keep right on being a member of your party, but fight the enemy of your party."

Wooley said the Prohibitionists adopted tactics of scolding and of

TOAST LIST FOR HIGH SCHOOL FEAST

Prof. Whitelaw R. Spurrier, Superintendent of Public Schools at Princeton, Ill., Will Preside.

LARGE CROWD IS EXPECTED

Indications this afternoon were that the crowd at the second banquet in the history of the Rushville High School Alumni Association, which will be held in the Main Street Christian church basement tomorrow evening at six-thirty o'clock, would be larger than that at the first one held two years ago. It is expected that plates for at least a hundred will be laid.

Whitelaw Spurrier, superintendent of the public schools at Princeton, Ill., will preside as toastmaster. The following toast list has been arranged: Miles S. Cox, '05, "The Women;" Dr. C. H. Parsons, '72, "When the High School Was an Infant;" Mrs. Nina McWhinney, '92, "After us, the Panic;" Ernest Thomas, "Fratrieide;" and John P. Frazee, Jr., '12, "I Don't Know Where I'm Going, But I'm on my Way." Dr. Parsons was a member of the second class that ever graduated from the local high school. There is but one member of the first class living, and that member is F. B. Pugh of Riverside, Cal.

SPARKS HAD SOME DOUBT ABOUT CASE

Farmer Judge Partially Agrees With Shelby County Jury Which Now Declares Man Not Guilty.

SENT TO PRISON FOR LIFE

A peculiar case has been brought to the attention of the State pardon board. George T. Anderson of Shelby county, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1907, while Judge Will M. Sparks of this city was on the bench at Shelbyville, is asking for a pardon. He was indicted for attacking a nine-year-old girl. The twelve jurors who convicted Anderson have signed a petition which is in effect that they believe him innocent now. They request his pardon. Anderson was a poor man, the trial was held shortly after the alleged crime, and public sentiment was high against him.

Judge Sparks has written a long letter, which was presented to the board. He says in the letter that "the evidence was not as strong as I would have liked to have had it, but the jury were good men, and I did not feel like laying my hands on it." In another part of the letter he says the Anderson case was one "I always had more or less doubt about."

WATCHMEN MAY WORK ON SUNDAY

City Council Starts Movement to Compel J. M. & I. to Maintain Flagmen at Crossings.

FATAL ACCIDENT IS THE CAUSE

Sidewalks in Arthur Street, According to Engineer's Report Are Not up to Specifications.

The city council met in special session last night to hear the city engineer's report on the sidewalk improvement in Arthur street. Incidentally a movement was started which may result in the Pennsylvania railway maintaining flagmen at the crossings in this city on Sunday.

The sad accident of Sunday caused the council to discuss the question and due to the act that two members were absent, Kelley and Parsons, no action was taken. The matter was left over until the next meeting and at that time the city attorney may be instructed to draw up an ordinance compelling the Pennsylvania flagmen to be on duty on Sunday.

Councilman Newhouse was the first to introduce the subject. Mr. Newhouse said he believed a flagman should be maintained at the Seventh street crossing of the Pennsylvania, on Sunday, because of the large number of people passing this place on the way to and from church. Councilman Norris was in favor of the flagmen at all crossings working on Sunday because he stated street travel was greater on Sunday than any other day. The council will investigate the question and find out how many trains are operated on this road on Sunday.

The report of the city engineer on the Arthur street improvement stated that the work was unsatisfactory and not up to the ordinance on such improvements. The report was received and placed on file. The council, accompanied by the engineer and J. H. Vance, the contractor who put in walk down, will go over the improvement and point out the defects to Mr. Vance. The work was put in during cold weather and several bad places have been found. Until the council accepts the improvement Mr. Vance cannot obtain his money.

The mayor and clerk were instructed to pay $262.60 to the various banks of the city for interest on outstanding notes. The next meeting of the council will be July 2.

Sam Webb, who had been in jail since last Wednesday for drunkenness, was released last night when his fine was stayed.

LAWYERS MOURN OLD SLAVE'S LOSS

Pay Respects to George Payne's Memory by Marching in a Body to Negro's Funeral.

HONOR SELDOM CONFERRED

Develops Since His Death That "Neighbor" Completed His 90th Year, January 1, 1912.

The members of the Rush County Bar Association honored the memory of George Payne, better known as "Neighbor," this afternoon when they met at Young & Young's law office and marched in a body to the Second M. E. church where the remains of the aged negro whose death from paralysis occurred Sunday evening.

Since the death of "Neighbor," it has developed that his true age was known. Will M. Sparks, an attorney for whom George worked for a number of years, is in possession of the information concerning George's life. The old negro was born in one of the Carolinas January first, 1822. He completed his ninetieth year the first day of this year.

George came into the possession of this information in a rather peculiar manner. One day last fall a southern man came to Rushville and inquired for George Payne. He was directed to the little home of the old negro, where he found George resting after a day of toil, started at three o'clock in the morning.

He was the son of George's master in the South before the war. The southern man spent a half day with George talking about the early days in the southland before the war. George was so delighted that his enthusiasm knew no bounds. He went to Will Sparks and asked that he make a note of his birth, which Mr. Sparks did. George did not remember the name of his master.

George came to this city from Nashville, Tenn., at the close of the civil war. He entered the war with his master, and when he was killed, George was captured by the Union forces and pressed into service. He had been in this city forty-five years, during which time he was a faithful worker.

The sight of the Rushville barristers marching up the street behind the hearse which bore all that was mortal of the old slave was an unusual spectacle. It was an honor that few men in George's station of life could command. It was a respect that the members of the Bar Association pay only to their deceased members.

"Neighbor" was respected and his memory is revered by all who knew him. He was a very devout Christian and had many good qualities which men of lighter color do not possess. He was honest and sincere, and had an everlasting faith in a life that is to come. His faith, and expressions of it, were a revelation and inspiration to many white people of good church standing.

Today many lawyers whose offices "Neighbor" had cleaned for years, were recalling experiences they had had with George. He had a reputation for honesty, and he was honest. It was remembered today that George once found the outer door to the vault in the Rushville National bank open. George stationed himself at that door and watched it all through the long hours of the night, more faithful than any man could imagine. He was janitor of the bank at that time. The inner door of the vault was locked, and the valuables could not have been stolen, but George did not know that, so he watched over it.

Another instance of George's honesty was cited by a Rushville lawyer today. This attorney thought he would test George's honesty and his strength of character. The old negro had been given access to banks and offices all his life here and had never stolen anything to the knowledge of any one.

This attorney left a quarter on the floor and went out while George was cleaning the office. The lawyer returned in the course of two hours, long after he knew George had finished his work. He found the old negro there with that quarter in his hand. All persuasive powers of the lawyer were used to attempt to get George to keep the quarter, but he would not, because he declared it was not his.

Lawyers also recall a story which George loved to relate. It was

HABEAS CORPUS WRIT SUCCESSFUL

DIVORCE SUIT PENDS IN COURT

In the Henry circuit court Mrs. Laura Dalrymple, wife of Thomas Dalrymple of Straughn, was ordered released from the custody of Sheriff K. K. Kirk by Robert S. Hunter, special judge, who acted on the evidence introduced in habeas corpus proceedings brought by Mrs. Dalrymple to obtain her release. The woman was then discharged and is now enjoying the fullest liberty.

Mrs. Dalrymple was recently declared of unsound mind by a commission over which H. L. Burr, a justice of the peace of Newcastle presided. Papers had been received by the sheriff providing for her admission to the Eastern Indiana hospital at Richmond. Before the sheriff could take the woman to the institution the habeas corpus proceedings were filed and she was declared sane by the court and her release from custody ordered.

Mrs. Dalrymple has a divorce case pending in the circuit court against her husband. Several weeks ago she was arrested by the marshal of Straughn and was released by him. She then filed charges of assault and battery against her husband.

PARKER WINS CHAIRMANSHIP

Bryan Defeated in Democratic Convention at Baltimore This Afternoon, 578 to 509.

HE FIRST PROPOSES KERN

But Senator From Indiana Withdraws Because Hoosier Governor is Presidential Candidate.

(Bulletin.)
(By United Press.)

Baltimore, June 25.—Convention adjourned until eight o'clock tonight, following Parker's election and speech. Bryan says will carry fight to platform committee. Progressive support not solid behind Bryan because believe him maneuvering candidate for position. Official vote: Parker, 578; Bryan, 516.
(Bulletin.)

Baltimore, June 25.—William Jennings Bryan was defeated here this afternoon for temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention by Alton B. Parker, the candidate of the conservative wing of the party. The vote stood, Parker 578; Bryan, 509; Ogorman, 4; Kern, 1; absent, 2.

Senator John W. Kern of Indiana was slated as the progressives' candidate for the chairmanship. He was placed in nomination by Bryan amid a great uproar.

At the conclusion of Bryan's nominating speech, Kern withdrew from the race. He declared Bryan to be the man entitled to the honor of sounding the party keynote, and to be the one capable of making a progressive fight. The Hoosier senator said he did not care to make the race on account of the close personal relations between him and Parker. Because Indiana has a candidate in Governor Marshall, he gave as another reason.

Kern then offered to withdraw from the race if Parker would. Parker was silent. Kern then proposed Bryan and the vote started at 1:55 o'clock.

The convention was called to order at 12:17. The nomination of Parker was contained in the report of the national committee. Bryan made his way to the front of the hall and was given a rousing reception by Wilson delegates. When he put Kern's name in nomination, Indiana was silent.

[Special to the Daily Republican.]

Baltimore, June 25.—When the first day's session of the Democratic national convention opened in Fifth Regiment armory here today, it was assured that the progressive wing of the party would have a candidate to place before the convention as a temporary chairman.

It was announced at ten minutes after ten that the progressives under the leadership of W. J. Bryan of Nebraska, had selected John Kern senator from Indiana as their candidate, and that they would fight for his election on the floor of the convention. Kern was to be placed in nomination by Bryan.

His opponent was to be Alton B. Parker, the candidate of the conservative wing. Parker is the choice of the national committee. He was selected last night by the committee, 31 to 22. Bryan has been making a fight against Parker, since it was announced he was the choice of the committee to sound the convention keynote.

With Mr. Bryan leading the fight for the progressives, there was only one issue in the convention today: that issue was Bryan. Whether the three-times candidate for the presidency was to win a distinct victory over the forces of the opposition headed by Tom Taggart of Indiana;

APPEAL FOR A SANE FOURTH

National Fire Protection Association Urges Celebration of The Nations Birthday.

ITS WORK BRINGS RESULTS

Mortality List is Reduced From 131 in 1910 to 57 in 1911—Property Saved.

The National Fire Protection Association of Boston has sent out an appeal to all newspapers to urge a sane Fourth of July.

The work of this organization has not been without results. In 1910 the dead from accidents on the Fourth numbered 131, and that total was cut down to 57 in 1911. The wounded were reduced by more than half in 1911. The appeal is as follows:

Independence Day in 1912 should have a new meaning. It should stand for liberation from the old idea that the only way to celebrate the birthday of the country was by saturnalia of noise, destruction and death. So many better, more enjoyable and more fitting observance of the day have been devised and proved out that there is now no excuse for allowing the anniversary to degenerate into a mere matter of noise.

The Sane Fourth idea is no longer a fad. It is an established fact in such centers as New York and Chicago, and if these large cities can control and prohibit the nuisances of dangerous explosives there is little wonder that thousands of smaller cities and towns have also barred the old-time riot of death and destruction.

As a result of this movement the Fourth of July deaths last year, as recorded by the Journal of the American Medical Association, were only 57, as compared with 131 in 1910 and 215 in 1909, while the roll of injuries was reduced in equal proportion. The fire losses due to the celebration were almost negligible in the cities in which the Sane Fourth was observed as against the former expectation that the day would break all records for the number of alarms.

These benefits should be made general and they will be if the municipalities will enact and enforce the necessary ordinance and the public sentiment of the community will stand behind them. Independence Day should mean too much to the nation and the individual in these times of change and progress to permit its lessons to be obscured by an orgy of fire and noise. Conservation is now the watchword and a proper celebration of the day will save the lives and limbs of thousands of victims to the cannon cracker and toy pistol and prevent the destruction of millions of dollars' worth of property by fire. So push the Sane Fourth idea.

TO MAKE REPORT ON SOCIAL DISEASE

State Board of Health Gathers Statistics On This Topic From Rural Districts.

PREVALENCE IS GENERAL

In the forthcoming report from this laboratory of hygiene of the State Board of Health, a year's investigation into the prevalence of the social disease in the small towns and rural communities of Indiana is set out with statistics and commentaries. It is shown that the prevalence of the diseases is almost as noticeable among married men and women as among those unmarried. In the monthly report from the state's laboratories for May, it is shown that 977 examinations of specimens were made. Tuberculosis bacilli were found in 122 of the 496 specimens examined. Diphtheria cultures examined numbered 117 and twenty-four were positive. Twenty-one heads of animals examined for rabies were found positive and twenty-three were found negative. Two typhoid carriers were discovered from examinations made with new apparatus at the laboratories.

LET US SHOW YOU NO-RIM-CUT TIRES

You are undoubtedly convinced that you should use No-Rim-Cut tires. Every motorist has read about No-Rim-Cut tires again and again in the magazines and newspapers. You have read how the 10 per cent oversize No-Rim-Cut features cut tire bills in two. You have wanted these tires. They are here now. Let us show you.

NO-RIM-CUT FEATURE

No-Rim-Cut tires have six tapes of 128 braided wires in the base, making the base absolutely unstretchable. Nothing can force the tire out of the rim channel. A hooked base is not necessary to hold the No-Rim-Cut tire on. The hooked side of the rings are turned away from the tire. Then the tire, when deflated, rests on the rounded side of the rings. Rim-Cutting is impossible.

10 PER CENT OVERSIZE

When a car is overloaded the tires get that extra strain. That hastens breakdowns—means blowouts. No-Rim-Cut tires are made 10 per cent oversize to provide for overload. The construction allows that.

That oversize means 10 per cent more air—10 per cent more carrying capacity. That oversize saves all that overloading costs.

Consider these features and what they save the motorists. No-Rim-Cut tires cost no more than standard clincher tires. Why shouldn't you adopt No-Rim-Cut tires. Come and see them and you will.

Prof. G. I. Christie of Purdue Agricultural Department Would Reform County Fairs.

Professor G. I. Christie, superintendent of the agricultural extension department of Purdue university, hopes the time will come when the county fair will be robbed of its present evils, Professor Christie says, are the sideshow fakes and other forms of amusement. In place of these so-called attractions, the professor would substitute exhibits of educational value to the farmer. He realizes, however, that it will take years to make the needed reform.

Professor Christie, in discussing the matter, said the reform could be effected only "by the substitution of interest creating exhibits of agriculture for the sideshows, the fakers and the racing schedules, which are the major portions of the county fair activities of the present day."

"The visitor must be made to feel that he has spent his time more beneficially than in attending the immoral and degrading displays and other non-educational attractions. There are numerous ways in which this can be accomplished, and none is more satisfactory than that of strengthening the various agricultural exhibits. Purdue university has done much along this line during the last two years by preparing exhibits for use at Indiana's various county fairs. These covers a variety of subjects—grains, fertilizers, soils, apparatus for horticultural improvement, dairy, products, Babcock testers, as well as innumerable large photographs and bromides depicting the work of the soils and crops, dairying, poultry, animal husbandry, horticultural, botanical, seed analytical and domestic science departments.

"The exhibits comprise fourteen boxes, each six inches deep, and every part represents a definite feature of the agricultural work at Purdue. It is then so arranged that its significance is apparent to the casual visitor at the exhibit hall. It has been customary for representatives of the school and the Purdue experiment station to accompany the exhibit, and give any desired information to the visiting farmers."

Professor Christie called attention to the necessity of suggesting proper literature for the use of agriculturists. An exhibit of books suitable for the library of the average farmer has been prepared, and in touring the state with county fair exhibits the Purdue representatives have noticed great interest in this feature. The books are nontechnical in their style, and are calculated to give the farmers ideas which will make continued prosperity in their farm activities.

"Yes, it is a long step from painted dancing girls and fast horses to a campaign for the use of agricultural literature," said he. "but the resultant improvement in agricultural conditions throughout the state is well worth the effort expended."

"A certain sign of agricultural progress is the manifestation of interest in the exhibition of large displays of the county's agricultural products. They are an incentive to the inactive farmer to produce better crops, and in this reflex-incentive there is sown a seed of discontent with his old methods, and a desire for modern methods and accompanying progress."

"It is wise to make the premiums for such exhibits large enough to prove attractive to the farmer. With this in view, the county fair superintendent, in his conference with the farmers, need not plead and beg with growers to exhibit their produce, as is the case at present. The success of the county fair will eventually be determined by the number and quality of the exhibits, which, as I have already declared, is the proper basis of recognition."

A BRYAN STAMPEDE

The Commoner Said to Be Preparing to Take Convention by Storm.

Baltimore, June 25.—If anything were needed (and it is not) to convince the delegates that Colonel Bryan is willing to try it again, it was the story that leaked out from Bryan's private room announcing that he is putting the finishing touches on a speech that he considers much better than the "cross of gold, crown of thorns" oration which stampeded the convention of 1896 for him. Mr. Bryan has let his close friends know that he has been working on his speech for two months. Nobody doubts that he will spring it. And one of the big guesses of the convention is what will happen afterward.

While the Bryan movement is getting steam up the Bryan rooters are yelling noisily for Bryan and scattering buttons and cards broadcast. In the close packed lobbies of the hotels bunches of westerners squeeze together so tightly that there is no room for gestures and make Bryan speeches. Bryan songs are resounding through the hotel corridors. Squads of iron-lunged glee men are chanting the Nebraska's praises. The newest warble in Bryan's interest is called: "I'd Kind o' Like to Vote for Bryan." The refrain runs:

"I'd kind o' like to vote for Bryan, Now honest, wouldn't you? I'd kind o' like to vote for Bryan, For this time he'll pull through."

A Marital Suicide Pact.
Laporte, Ind., June 25.—Clyde Haun, aged twenty-three, and his wife of the same age, carried out a suicide agreement by swallowing carbolic acid. Their cries aroused the neighborhood and Haun kissed his wife farewell. He lived twenty minutes, while she lingered an hour. The theory of a suicide agreement is given credence from statements made by Haun that there was trouble and that when one died the other would quickly follow.

Swat the Fly

Misuse of Term.

If there had been a sufficient amount of chloroform on hand, and Dr. Osler's theory could have been accepted, the colonel might have won a sweeping victory at Chicago. We find, on reading the roster of the councils of war held in the tents of his opponents, many men who have passed Dr. Osler's limit, and many more who have passed the psalmist's limit, sitting above the salt at the council boards. Stressful days and nights, with but small intermissions for eating and sleeping, midnight caucuses lasting until daylight, swift emergencies calling for action no less swift, inevitable delay, the most trying of all experiences in vital action, meeting inflammatory and threatening protest with a resolute and unshaking front, and dealing, at short range and in short space, with all of the thousands of ill that flesh is heir to when it fills the high seats in a party's councils called to choose men and measures for a coming campaign, found them and left them, a score or more of them, strong and resourceful and apparently as able as the youngest delegate in the Coliseum to carry the struggle over into the next week.

If Senator Root, who presided so ably and impartially that even the third-term men, finding fault with nearly everything, have not been able to find fault with his rulings, had been chloroformed at the expiration of the doctor's time limit, a younger man with a less seasoned head could easily have invited a wreck. As it is, the cause triumphant in his selection as temporary chairman is triumphant in the total result of the convention's work, with the one most dissenting figure seemingly up in the air, unable to concentrate his scattered forces at any point of action, and wholly unresolved as to what course he himself shall take.

And the presiding officer was but a type of many men to be found in many delegations, or of such high rank in party councils as to be called into conference, whose intelligent and courageous work broke the forces of the strongest wave against party and patriotic tradition which even threatened to overwhelm a party in our politics. Their physical and mental vitality met every test. But even more valuable, in such an emergency, was their accumulated experience of years of active participation in public life. Experience gained and lost is the most empty thing under the heavens.

The term "Old Guard" has grown into our politics through the natural feeling of voters in a party to look to men grown gray in its service, and whose many victories have inspired their confidence. Because of this trust, men not gray, save as the donkey is, by nature's law ordained, have sought to misuse that name. It has been profaned by many charlatans, and soiled by much ignoble use. In such a victory of old men as the turning back of the tide at Chicago has shown us, the name of the "Old Guard" is rescued from reproach. History, as always, has repeated itself only in part. A presumptuous Napoleon met a Waterloo, but the "Old Guard" fought against him.

A Chance.

This is a season of the year when there are turned out of the public schools and the colleges scores, hundreds, yes thousands of graduates. They have finished their respective courses of study, but in fact they are only beginning.

"The average graduate knows precious little and doesn't know that very well," declares a Chicago professor. He says that he has found many students who do not know that France is a republic; that some of them think Portugal is a city; that few of them understand the industries of other nations than this one; that practically none of them know the difference between latitude and longitude.

Still rubbing it in, he declares that out of a class of one hundred not one knew anything about Aristotle and none of them understood the literary worth of the bible or were familiar with its history of the historical facts related therein. But it may be too painful to further follow the professor. The point is that at this time many persons are criticizing the graduate, for his lack of information upon general and useful subjects.

The truth is, of course, that the college graduate knows more than the boy of the same age who is not a graduate, maybe. Either of them may know very little, neither of them may have come to man's estate in the matter of learning. But it is certain that the graduate who qualifies himself is better for learning, and ought to make greater progress later he leaves school. If at school he has learned how to learn, that is something worth while.

Sam Sambersen Says:

That a lot of people can't see the difference between a vacation and a holiday.

There is nothing else for us to do but to send our boys to school, if we can, and take the chances, always bearing in mind the hope that they will succeed.

Many independent newspapers took the view that the handling and deciding of the contest cases at the Chicago convention were strictly fair and parliamentary throughout. The Logansport Pharos, a Democratic paper says: Sen Root is a well qualified presiding officer, familiar with parliamentary methods and capable of enforcing his commands. His ruling in the matter of the right of contested delegates to vote in all contests except their own was what knocked Roosevelt out of the box. That ruling gave the Taft faction control of the convention. And according to parliamentary usages Root's ruling was right. To rule otherwise would put a convention in the hands of a minority. All that a minority would have to do to get control would be to bring enough contests to overwhelm the majority. In the Chicago convention case there were only a few cases in 256 contests brought by the Roosevelt forces that had any merit. Roosevelt himself admitted this when he consented to the withdrawal of all but 78 of the 256 contests.

Anxiously we await the next weekly setting forth future "cardinal principles and policies" of the Indianapolis Star. The Indianapolis newspapers each week in a highly enlightening editorial explain its position in the political world. No two positions have been alike. It now remains to be seen whether the Star proposes to remain in the Republican party or to follow Theodore Roosevelt in his third party debacle. No doubt the Star is highly indignant that the Republican national convention did not heed its dictations to do as it said, nominate Roosevelt and Beveridge. The Star has been on so many sides of political questions during the pre-convention campaign that its future wobbles are awaited with interest. The Star has come out under the Taft platform then on the Roosevelt platform, and back and forth any number of times. When Roosevelt advocated the initiative, referendum and recall, the Star ditched him. But when he promised to be good and forget about such truck the Star was with him again.

Theodore Roosevelt is basing his plans for a new party on a foundation of sand if he really believes as he says that William Jennings Bryan will be with him after the convention at Baltimore. Whatever may be said of Bryan, he is a Democrat and will remain one. We have never had any intimation to the contrary. The bolt is not in Bryan's vocabulary except when he was writing about the Republican convention at Chicago for a string of newspapers. He believes in the cardinal principles of the Democratic party with which he has been affiliated, and he has always remained devoted to them. Whatever may be Bryan's future course he will not leave the Democratic party. He was violently opposed to the nomination of Parker for President, but he fought him in the ranks of the party.

As the Vermont Democrats are sending contesting delegations, the question arises who will drive the cows to pasture with the entire party is gone to Baltimore?

Mr. Bryan may be able to report a national convention for his newspaper, but would he get the names of those present at a dance without mis-spelling some of them?

There won't be sufficient crops while there are so many people who regard the hoe and the spade as instruments of degradation and torture.

Elihu Root might be able to handle the Chicago convention pretty well, but could he control the Insurgents at a Sunday school picnic?

A national convention makes a fine stage show to draw the crowd to the quadrennial vaudeville in behalf of the hotel keepers.

The culminating event of the educational world occurred when Harvard won three boat races from Yale.

The women delegates were calm. Used to hungry men calling for dinner.

We are having a difficult time of it Colyming this week, with most of the neighborhood quipsters off the job on their summer vacation. All assistance will be kindly accepted—and the name will not be attached. There now, that ought to be tempting enough to get somebody to help.

Speaking of vacations—there are a dozen we know who have been planning a vacation since last Christmas, and who have just suddenly come to the sad realization that they can't take a hundred dollar trip on a thirty-dollar bank account. That's our fix exactly—minus the thirty-dollar bank account.

But there is a time when some people have to take a vacation. That's the good old August time when the snifflers are abroad. It's mighty nice to have it, so 'tis said, when it offers an excuse to go north, but again there are said to be disadvantages even with hay fever. Don't misunderstand. Some of the people who go north have hay fever.

It is authentically reported that Hagenbeck's wild animal show men are getting many points from a study of the art of handling delegates to national conventions.

About this time of year a great army of possible $1500 men became two dollar a day men because they haven't either the price, the faith or the grit to stick to school a few years longer.

NO COMPROMISE POSSIBLE NOW

SLAMS PREDATORY INTERESTS

These, Says the Commoner, Have So Completely Dominated Majority of National Committee That the Latter Either Have No Conception of Democracy or Are So Controlled as Not to Be Able to Follow Convictions.

Baltimore, June 25.—William J. Bryan called the representatives of the newspapers to his room twenty minutes after the national committee voted him down last night, and dictated a statement attacking Judge Parker personally and charging that the representatives of predatory interests are seeking to repeat here what he says they did at Chicago. The belief is here based on his statement that, like Roosevelt, he will bolt if he cannot dominate. The statement referring to the present fight says:

"I had expected it, when Mr. Guffy was seated against the protests of the Democrats of Pennsylvania, I learned what I had before suspected, that a majority of that committee either has no conception of Democracy or is so glaringly under the control of the predatory interests as not to be able to follow their convictions." "The reasons they give," he continues, "are like all reasons given in defense of wrong. They are insincere and they are not the reasons that influence them. The fight will be resumed tomorrow, at which time a progressive will be presented to the convention to vote upon the lines will be drawn so that the delegates can decide whether they will ally themselves with the Belmont-Ryan-Murphy crowd that overwhelmed the party with defeat eight years ago and which is in close continuous co-partnership with the crowd that nominated Mr. Taft at Chicago. The predatory interests have no politics. They are with the party that serves them."

"Having enabled a minority of the Republicans to override the will of a majority of the Republicans at Chicago, they are now here to enable a minority of the Democrats to override the majority in this convention. There is not a great exploiting interest that is not represented in the lobbies of the hotels. There is not a corrupting influence in American politics that is not being used. And the delegates to this convention underestimate the intelligence of these who sent them here if they think they can go back and deceive them into believing that they supported Mr. Parker from any worthy motive. The talk of harmony is too absurd to deserve consideration.

"I shall discuss Mr. Parker's fitness for the position tomorrow. It is enough tonight to say that if he does not know whose agent he is he lacks the intelligence necessary for a presiding officer, and if he does know he does not deserve the support of any man who has the right to call himself a Democrat."

"I expect to present the name of some progressive to support his claims before the convention. If I fail to find a man who will lead the fight my name will be presented as a candidate for temporary chairman. I have no way of knowing how the convention stands, but the Democrats of the nation have done enough for me to justify me suffering defeat if necessary in their defense. One Republican party is enough in this country. For, whatever we may call ourselves, if we cannot distinguish ourselves from them by action, the people will not pay much attention to our words."

Mr. Bryan, after he had finished his statement, inquired again what the vote of the committee was and turned away into his bedroom. From the street and the hotel lobby came the roar of Bryan cheers. The news of the Nebraska's turn-down served only to intensify his followers' ardor. Comments varied widely on Mr. Bryan's attack on Judge Parker and the majority of the national committee. Senator O'Gorman and Morgan J. O'Brien said it was regrettable that such a situation had arisen, but that the convention would act for the best interests of the party.

STIFF PROBLEM IS FACING THEM

Legal Difficulties Confront New Party Makers.

THE QUESTION OF ELECTORS

Political Lawyers Are at Sea on the Question of Whether Electors Named as Republicans Are Compelled to Vote For Republican Nominees—Despite All This the Colonel Is Going Right Ahead With His Plans.

Chicago, June 25.—Just before he left for New York the attitude of Colonel Roosevelt in respect to the Baltimore convention was defined by him. "My position will not be influenced by any action of the Baltimore convention," said the colonel. "I will not depart from what I said Saturday night. I will accept the progressive nomination on a progressive platform, and I shall fight the battle through to the end."

Colonel Roosevelt changed his mind about the names of the men selected to undertake the organization of his new party, and decided to make them public along with his statement. The committee as now constituted consists of Governor Hiram Johnson of California, Gifford Pinchot, James R. Garfield of Ohio, Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota, Senator Dixon of Montana, Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington, Governor Aldrich of Nebraska, Governor Vesey of South Dakota, E. A. Van Valkenberg of the Philadelphia North American, Colonel W. R. Nelson of the Kansas City Star, Richmond Pearson of North Carolina, Comptroller William A. Prendergast of New York, William Allen White of Kansas, Judge Ben Lindsay of Colorado, the only Democrat so far, Matthew Hale of Massachusetts, George L. Record of New Jersey, Charles H. Thompson of Vermont, and E. C. Carrington of Maryland.

This is to be called the committee on organization. It is not complete. It is known that Colonel Roosevelt will get into communication at once with prominent Democratic progressives and that such of them that care to join his banner will be added to the list of the organization committee. The Democratic progressive wing is not expected to declare itself until after the Baltimore convention.

Colonel Roosevelt said that he was going directly to Oyster Bay to think over the plans for his new party and take a much needed rest. While Colonel Roosevelt is speeding east Governor Johnson will be traveling westward to recruit the new party, of whose western wing he is to have charge. The platform of the new party, say the Roosevelt men, will be the Columbus speech, with the possible exception of the recall of judges and judicial decisions, which they say was included in that speech only tentatively.

It is admitted on both sides that the problem of building up a new party over night bristles with difficulties, in which legal complications play a great part. The problem of presidential electors is essentially a legal one, and both the Roosevelt and Taft leaders have given this problem of the electors a great deal of thought since the Orchestra hall meeting. The Taft leaders, including Senators Root, Penrose and Crane, have gone over it at some length. One of those who were present at this talk said that none of the lawyers seemed to be of the same opinion upon any one point, even Senator Root admitting that the matter was a knotty one.

Trespassers Shoot Farmer.

Mt. Vernon, Ind., June 25.—Columbus Overton, a prominent farmer of this county, was awakened by two men in his yard and on trying to quiet them was shot in the back. He is in a critical condition. One of the men, Tom Varner, got away and the other, William Evans, was arrested.

Talk That Senate Will Not Confirm Witherspoon Appointment.

Washington, June 25.—President Taft's long delayed appointments to fill vacancies in the army were announced as follows:

Brigadier General W. W. Witherspoon to be major general, succeeding to the late General Grant; Brigadier General Clarence R. Edwards, who holds that rank by virtue of his position as chief of the bureau of insular affairs, to be brigadier general in the line army; Colonel George F. Chase to be brigadier general; Colonel E. J. McClelland to be brigadier general.

The appointment of General Witherspoon is something of a surprise, though he had been included in the estimates of many who have been making up promotion slates in the last few weeks. General Witherspoon is fifth on the list of brigadiers with Funston, Bliss, Mills and Pershing ahead of him. It has been well understood that General Edwards was to be placed in the line. There is talk of opposition in the senate when confirmation of his promotion is asked.

THIRTY-TWO DEAD

Final Figures of Disaster to Niagara Excursion Party.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 25.—The number of victims of the collapse of the old wooden dock at Eagle Park, Grand Island, on Sunday night now is placed at thirty-two. Seventeen bodies have been recovered and identified and organized rescue parties are now working in the Niagara current to find the other victims.

The victims are members of Amherst court, American Order of Foresters, and their wives, children and other relatives. The collapse of the dock brought to a tragic close the annual river party of the order.

Triangular Shooting Affray.

Mayfield, Ky., June 25.—After Rufus Billington had mortally wounded Alvin Wheeler, a tobacco planter of Vealsburg, a few miles from here, Wheeler's son shot Billington. Wheeler died a few minutes later after he had been shot. Billington, despite his wounds, was placed in jail. Wheeler and Billington had been at odds since Wheeler attempted to check the liquor traffic in this part of the state.

Will Carry It Higher.

Washington, June 25.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was sentenced to one year in jail for contempt of court by Justice Wright of the District of Columbia supreme court. Frank A. Morrison, secretary of the federation, was sentenced to six months in jail for the same offense. Both gave notice of appeal and gave $5,000 bond.

SERIOUSLY HURT.

Dan Kinney, who is at the bedside of his brother, John Kinney, at his home in Fairmount, Grant county, has written that his brother is in a very serious condition as the result of injuries. The first news received here was that Mr. Kinney had been hurt in an accident, but the local man did not mention the nature of the accident in his letter.

Bryan Precipitates Bitter Contest.

HE OPPOSES PARKER

Committee's Choice for Temporary Chairman Resisted.

TO FIGHT IT OUT ON FLOOR

Marshall Boomers Active in Pushing Hoosier Candidate.

Baltimore, June 25.—Charges that money is being spent lavishly to buy delegates to vote for Parker and organize the convention for Murphy and Ryan created wild excitement in the lobby of the Belvidere today. Ex-Governor Folk of Missouri said openly that a delegate would be produced on the floor of the convention who had received a bribe to vote for Parker. He predicted that Bryan would sweep the convention and that his victory would mean that the delegates would stampede to him as the presidential nominee.

Baltimore, June 25.—Norman E. Mack, chairman of the national committee, called the Democratic national convention to order shortly after noon today. Following the formal call for the convention, read by Urey Woodson, secretary of the national committee, the chairman introduced Cardinal Gibbons, who, in impressive accents, invoked divine guidance in the deliberations of the convention.

At this point the expectation of the delegates and the great audience which filled the convention hall almost to the point of suffocation was aroused to the highest pitch, for it had become well known over night that the announcement by the chairman, the next step in the formality of opening the convention, that Judge Alton B. Parker had been selected by the national committee as temporary chairman of the convention would be the signal for a determined fight opened by the Bryan forces against the seating of the committee's choice, and on every side there was the tensest interest in the outcome of what must be the decisive struggle of the convention, the initial line-up and test of strength between the progressive and the reactionary forces in the party.

Hoosiers There in Force.

The hotels are running over with Hoosiers. The politicians are taking notice of Indiana and they have found out that Indiana has a candidate for the presidency. Not only have they found out that Indiana has a real candidate in Governor Marshall, but they have learned that Senator John W. Kern, without any effort on his part, has a strong following should it become necessary to have a compromise candidate.

Here is the field of avowed candidates: Speaker Champ Clark of Missouri, Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, Judson Harmon of Ohio, Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana. In addition to the men mentioned above there is John Burke of North Dakota, for whom the Democrats of that state cast a preference primary vote; Simon E. Baldwin of Connecticut, for whom the Democrats of Connecticut are instructed to vote, and Mayor Gaynor of New York, for whom there has developed quite a boom in the Empire state. The paper strength of the several candidates today is as follows: Clark, 413; Wilson, 274; Harmon, 57; Underwood, 91; Marshall, 30; Burke, 30; Baldwin, 14; uninstructed, 205.

Marshall Forces Organize.

The preliminary steps toward a vigorous fight for the nomination of Thomas R. Marshall for the presidency were taken at the Indiana headquarters when Thomas Taggart called a meeting of all the Indiana people. Mr. Taggart spoke briefly on the work the friends of Mr. Marshall will have to do and urged that an organization be made at once. On motion of Lew G. Ellingham, secretary of state, Judge Andrew A. Adams was appointed permanent chairman of the Indiana delegation to have charge of the work in behalf of the governor, and James Fry, state oil inspector, was appointed secretary.

THOMAS R. MARSHALL

Major G. V. Menzies of Mt. Vernon explained what he thought should be the general plan, and at his suggestion a steering committee of seven was appointed by Judge Adams. This committee is composed of John E. Lamb of Terre Haute, chairman; Thomas Taggart of Indianapolis, Major G. V. Menzies of Mt. Vernon; Joseph M. Cravens of Madison; Judge John W. Spencer of Evansville, and J. S. McFadden of Rockville. The steering committee at once went into session and went over the list of delegates from the different states, and assigned men from Indiana to visit every delegation and present the cause of Governor Marshall.

PRECIPITATED FIGHT

Boasted Harmony Knocked Into a Cocked Hat on First Move.

Baltimore, June 25.—William Jennings Bryan's first attempt to dominate the Democratic national convention was repulsed by the national committee last night. Mr. Bryan was voted down, 31 to 22, in his effort to prevent the selection of Alton B. Parker as temporary chairman of the convention. The anti-Parker forces cast twenty votes for Ollie James of Kentucky and two for Senator O'Gorman of New York. This threw the fight on to the floor of the convention and the great hall this afternoon is seething with excitement over the contest that the commoner has precipitated upon what promised to be a notably harmonious gathering. The lines have been formed sharply between the radicals and conservatives in the party, and there is certain to be strife and bitter feeling which will knock into a cocked hat all the plans that had been carefully laid for pointing to the country the spectacle of a sane and united Democracy.

The anti-Bryan forces, led by Chas. F. Murphy, have made a careful canvass of the delegates and they declare that they will elect Judge Parker by at least a majority of 150. The Bryan men are making no confident boasts, but the probability is that the commoner himself will stand before the convention in opposition to Judge Parker. The Bryan forces are confident they will command the situation.

All the Nebraskan's supporters are working like young beavers counting noses and lining up the doubtful delegates. The Bryan men were absolutely confident of being able to defeat Parker on the floor of the convention. They are not as exact in their figures as the Parker men, but they assert that they will control the convention by a safe vote. The hopes of the conservatives to control the convention against Bryan lie chiefly now in the attitude of Speaker Champ Clark. Mr. Clark undoubtedly has it in his power to save the day for Bryan. He may also—but of this there is a good deal of doubt—have the power to throw enough votes to Parker to see him through safely. However the situation is viewed, though, Speaker Clark finds himself between two fires. If he throws his support to Bryan he will, in the opinion of Democratic leaders, be committing political suicide. On the other hand, if Mr. Clark lines up firmly for Parker he will be face to face with a threatened revolt in his own ranks, as many of Bryan's friends are among the Clark delegates.

Former Governor Joseph W. Folk has espoused Mr. Bryan's cause, and ten of the Missouri delegates are backing Folk in his stand against Parker. The Kansas delegation also would refuse to follow Clark in attempting to name Parker as temporary chairman, and there are many other states in which the speaker's delegation would be split on this question. At best it is estimated that Clark would not be able to deliver more than half his strength to Parker, and the attempt would undoubtedly lead to a revolt against the speaker as a candidate for the nomination.

The eleventh biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs is in session at San Francisco.

Whining which lost instead of gained support. He stamped scolding as the meanest thing in the world. But he declared it was necessary to scold when he broke into the Prohibition party, because the pulpit, press and public was against the party, and something had to be done to command attention.

Wooley likened his position while in the third party, and his position now, to the man who discovered a fire in his neighbor's house at midnight, when everyone is asleep. He said this man would most likely ring the fire bell and alarm the people to duty. After they were fighting the fire, there was no occasion, he pointed out, to keep spreading the alarm. Such was his position, he said, when he left the Prohibition party. The Prohibitionists wanted to keep hanging on to the fire bell and arousing the people, but Wooley declared, as he said last night that he refused to skin his hands hanging on to the bell rope when the people were already aroused. What he intended to do after that, and what he is doing now, he said, is fighting the fire.

Wooley declared that people who are remotely removed from the curse of drink generally look on the victims as one of his superiors who has a deep interest in him, but does nothing. He recalled that a drunkard has the same emotions and instincts, except that he has the taste which he can not overcome and that it is the duty of his stronger brothers to help him along by stamping out the saloon. Wooley declared many a man would be cured of the drink evil if he did not have to pass so many open and inviting bar rooms each day of his life.

Wooley made an appeal for women's aid. He prophesied that woman suffrage was coming on and that the vote of the feminine sex would kill the traffic.

"There is not body enough to the Christian citizenship," was the speaker's complaint. "The dirty politician doesn't have as much respect for the Christian citizenship as he has for the whiskey element. You must always be on the job with your body, your mental position in regard to the question will do no good. It requires your physical presence."

"You Christian Republicans must not vote for a whiskey Republican, and the same thing applies in the Democratic ranks. There is a tremendous majority of men in this nation which is willing to put its neck on the liquor traffic, but it is not on the job."

Shortly after George had joined church and he was up at a revival meeting. A hot stove pipe fell down and the preacher shouted for George to pick it up. George said he was afraid he would be burned. The preacher hooted at that and told him to have faith. George had faith and picked it up, but he carried his hands in bandages for days afterwards.

"Neighbor" had regular times each day for praying. Many lawyers recall times when they have come into their offices in the morning and found George on his knees imploring forgiveness.

Roger Sullivan of Illinois; Charles F. Murphy of New York and others of the ultra-conservatives, for whether he was to lose his fight because of his insistence that a conservative had no real position in a Democratic convention was still a problem to be solved when the votes of the delegates had been recorded.

The contests for seats in the convention came up before the national committee last night, after it had voted on the temporary chairmanship and endorsed Parker. The contest arguments were heard by a subcommittee. At one time a fist fight was narrowly averted.

A spirited debate marked the contest from Illinois, in which Mayor Carter Harrison and the William Randolph Hearst Democratic faction of Chicago, were the contestants against the Roger C. Sullivan faction. The Harrison-Hearst delegates from the Tenth Cook county district and the Seventeenth, Twenty-first and Eighth districts of Illinois it was maintained had been selected in regular primary election, whereas the delegates seated were chosen in the old-fashioned conventions.

P.O.S. OF A. ELECTS OFFICERS

Lodge Names Officials For Ensuing Six Months.

The semi-annual election of officers of the Patriotic Sons of America was held last night. The following officers were elected: Theodore Jarvis, president; W. C. Gilson, vice-president; N. L. Adams, master of forms; T. W. Felts, conductor; J. H. Prather, inspector; J. C. Gregg, guard; Sam VanSycle, trustee for 18 months; W. C. Gilson and George L. Newhouse, delegates to State Camp at Connersville, August 13.

OFF TO BALTIMORE.

John D. Megee, John Wallace and son Mull and Charles Markle left last evening for Baltimore to attend the Democratic national convention. They are the only Rush county Democrats who will be attendance, with the exception of Dr. J. G. Lewis and son who have already gone.

NOT AMONG SILENT BOLTERS

Sixth District Roosevelt Delegates Refused to Heed Colonel's Mandates and Keep Still.

PORTER WITH TAFT FORCES

Bryson Telegraphed he Could not Subscribe to Separation From Grand Old Party.

The two Roosevelt delegates from the Sixth Indiana district, T. C. Bryson of Connersville, and Enos Porter of Shelbyville, were not among the silent bolters at the Chicago convention. Mr. Bryson refused to follow the mandate of the colonel and not have voice in the proceedings. He, along with Ed C. Toner, one of the Roosevelt delegates from the Eighth district, voted "no" on the adoption of the platform. Saturday, Mr. Bryson sent the following telegram to his wife at Connersville:

"A new party called the Progressive will be launched tomorrow. It's a problem I am expected to solve without much preparation. I can not subscribe to the separation from the grand old party."

Mr. Porter, who is a close personal friend of C. H. Campbell, the former Roosevelt leader in Indiana, finally cast his lot with the Taft forces and voted for the adoption of the majority report of the resolutions committee.

On the vote for presidential candidate Mr. Porter voted with the Taft forces, he having been released from his obligation to Roosevelt by the colonel's statement issued Thursday. Mr. Roosevelt's name was not before the convention, although several delegates insisted on voting for him.

MEETING PLANNED FINALLY CALLED OFF

Railway Counsel Will Not Gather To Discuss Sunday Excursion Agreement.

SEVERAL ROADS VIOLATE IT

The proposed meeting of railroad counsel to settle the excursion question has been called off, as word was received from Columbus that New York Central Lines, Nickle Plate, Baltimore & Ohio, Hocking Valley, Norfolk & Western, Toledo & Ohio Central and the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton have assured Attorney General Timothy Hogan that they will resume excursion business in the immediate future.

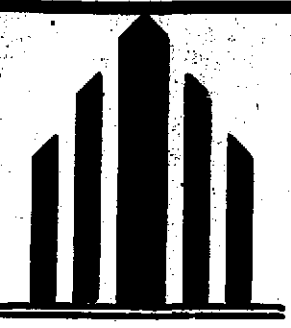

Officials of the Lake Shore, a part of the New York Central system, it is stated, have declared that they have decided upon one cent per mile fares for single day excursions.

On Sunday, June 23d, the C. H. & D. will run excursions over its Wellston and Delphos divisions into Dayton. It is likely that the Big Four will run excursions to a resort located near Sandusky.

The L. E. & W. announces this week that it will run Sunday excursions beginning next Sunday.

WEATHER.

Fair except showers in extreme south portion tonight or Wednesday. Cooler in north portion Wednesday.
